Pottstown’s floral displays

One of the great things about a traditional town like Pottstown is its residents’ ability to share their flowers and gardens with others.

Suburban houses on big lots or exclusive cul-de-sacs are purely for the enjoyment of the people who live there.

But in Pottstown, walkers and bicyclists have ample time to delight in the flowers and greenery their neighbors grow.

It’s inspiring to see how much green pride you can see in a 30-minute walk around town.

Even our downtown has plentiful hanging flower baskets watered daily for the borough by C. W. Dickinson Co.

Commentary by Tom Hylton